Purpose of the course unit (module): programme competences to be developed To develop an understanding of the purposes, scope, methods, and complexity of postcolonial studies; to be able to comprehend postcolonial approach/perspective as analysis of cultural contexts and literary texts as well as fiction; to be able to apply theoretical knowledge to practical analysis of cultural issues. Ability to interpret both fictional narratives and non-fictional texts as representations of postcolonialism in various geocultural contexts. The study of the relationship between postcolonial and literature examines the wide set of strategies, methods, and approaches. The analysis and interpretations of selected literary texts is intended to provide a broad understanding of globalised postcoloniality as a mode of literary and cultural criticism and practice. The course aims to introduce the most essential issues in cultural studies and ways of analyzing them are introduced in the class and through reading sources.
